

Group Classes:

Group classes are an incredibly important part of the Suzuki Method; not only are we reinforcing techniques that we learn in our private lessons, but we are using that time to review earlier pieces, and make them even more musical. For higher-level students, we also have a Cello Choir!

Group classes foster a strong sense of community, and a place for parents and families to get to know each other!

Group classes will be held on a weekly basis on Thursday afternoon/evenings. Please make sure to keep the entire afternoon free for Groups; as new students come into the studio, and current students reach higher levels, the Group Class structure will change.

Show up early to your scheduled group class time, so you can get unpacked, tuned, and be ready to go when it's your turn. The faster we start, the more time we can have for pieces, and games!
